Loren Earley Named Lisbon Superintendent

Salem Junior High Principal To Take New Job Oct. 15

Loren D. Earley of 207 W. 16th St., principal of the Junior High School, is the new superintendent of schools at nearby Lisbon.

Mr. Earley Junior High principal here since 1948 and a teacher in the Salem schools for nearly 17 years, has signed a two-year contract as Lisbon superintendent of schools at $6,000 annually.

He will take over his new duties at Lisbon Oct. 15, succeeding V. C. Ullman, who resigned to go to Franklin County.

Mr. Earley, who also has been active in local and district Kiwanis Club affairs, is a graduate of Geneva College at Beaver Falls, Pa. After graduating from Geneva in 1932, he obtained his masters degree from Columbia University in 1940. He is a native of East Palestine where he was graduated from High School in 1927.

Came Here in 1936

He first taught at East Palestine High and came to Salem public schools in 1936, teaching English and social science.

In 1941 he was put in charge of the seventh and eighth grades at the Fourth Street Junior High School and in 1944 became dean of boys at Salem High.

He left Salem in 1947 for Cleveland Heights school, but returned the next year to Salem as Junior High principal.

Mr. Earley is serving his 12th year as secretary of the Salem Kiwanis Club and served as club president two years ago.

As vice president of the 15th Kiwanis Division Council, he will be elevated as Kiwanis District governor when the Kiwanis state convention is held Oct. 10 to 13 at Columbus.

Approval of the lieutenant governorship was made at a Kiwanis district meeting last week at Toronto. He has served on various Ohio Kiwanis club committees.

'Integration' Acts Continue

South Leaders Fear Episodes Will Multiply

By The Associated Press

Continued resistance against mixing white and Negro students in several of the so-called border areas appeared likely Monday while Deep South leaders pointed out such incidents might multiply in state with a greater percentage of Negro population.

Eleven Negroes forced out of a previously all-white high school in Milford, Del., by passive resistance were expected to be transferred to a Negro school 18 miles away via Dover until a court rules on the case.

A hearing has been set for Oct. 12 on a petition filed by Louis Redding, an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The petition seeks to force the school board to return the Negroes to the white school.

In Baltimore there was no indication whether classes would resume Monday at Southern High School, where a loud demonstration was staged Friday. City and school officials did not comment on the incident.

At Dover, Del., a committee of citizens was formed to block the anti-integration movement. About 150 persons attended a closed meeting Friday night for the purpose of organizing a "vigilantes committee" to prevent "terrorism by lawless forces."

In Washington, Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) called on Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell to look into "parents" strikes against integration of the schools" and to determine "whether they have a common origin."

The ADA called attention to anti-integration actions in Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia and said they "cannot be tolerated by the community or by the responsible authorities."

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina said last week that incidents were occurring in areas with relatively small Negro populations and might be multiplied in states with a greater percentage of Negro population.

State Sen. William Rainach of Louisiana, chairman of a joint legislative committee to continue segregaton, said, "Such episodes will spread wherever integration is tried, regardless of what kind of decree the Supreme Court hands down."

Few Artillery Shots Mark Quemoy 'War'

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist planes and warships continued to patrol the China Coast opposite Formosa today while the "vest pocket war" over Quemoy simmered to a few artillery bursts, the Defense Ministry said.

Lt. Gen. Chang Yi-ting, official army spokesman, said Nationalist patrols spotted no significant build-up of Communist surface craft which might be used to invade Quemoy or even Formosa.

Chiang Kai-shek's elder son, Lt. Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo predicted yesterday the Reds soon would attempt an invasion of Formosa with 20,000 to 24,000 men.

Young Chiang, who has been called a possible successor to his father, said the Reds have said they would "liberate" Formosa and they will have to do something to save face. He predicted any invasion force would be wiped out.

Chang told newsmen today reports of Russian submarines near the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands, 350 miles north of Quemoy, have been heard in official circles here, but there has been no confirmation.

Britain, France Welcome Red Arms Proposal

UNTED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Britain and France join here today in the first official Western reaction to what may be a Russian new look in disarmament proposals.

Informed sources said spokesmen for the two NATO allies, in their policy speeches to the U. N. General Assembly, would voice hopes that Russia isn't fooling this time.

In proposing his new disarmament plan to the assembly Thursday, Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky recommended that a program be worked out on the basis of British-French compromise disarmament proposals put forward at talks in London last June.

He followed this up with a point-by-point proposal for a disarmament treaty, including (1) negotiation of an agreement on reduction of conventional arms, (2) accomplishment of these cuts in two 6-to-12-month periods, (3) a ban on manufacture of nuclear weapons at the beginning of the second period, (4) elimination and prohibition of nuclear weapons during the second period, and (5) creation of international control organizations to supervise compliance.

The 15-nation Steering Committee will meet tomorrow to act on Vishinsky's demand that his disarmament proposals should be considered as a new item on the agenda.

Rotarians Will Hear Chest Agency Speakers

Representatives of agencies which participate in Salem's Community Chest drive will appear on programs at the Rotary Club meetings tomorrow and next Tuesday.

Speaking tomorrow to explain the operations of their groups will be Ross Ludwig and Ralph Martin of the Boy Scouts, Mrs. Stanley Starkie and Carol McQuilkin of the Girl Scouts, Capt. Shirley Brown of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Augusta Ibele of the Home Nursing Service and Albert Hanna, superintendent of the Central Clinic.

Sen. McCarthy Plans Stress On Fight With Reds

Lists Eisenhower, Democratic Heads As Vote-Swingers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy seemed certain today to put stress on his "fight against communism" as a cornerstone of his Senate defense against a move to cenure him for his conduct.

The Wisconsin Republican hit on this theme time and again during a radio-TV interview last night—his first personal reply since a special Senate committee a week ago recommended his censure.

And he said the Senate which meets Nov. 8 to take up the issue, "de initely" won't vote for censure if it considers the facts and the setting of "dangerous precedent." But the vote will go against him, he said, if senators base their judgment on politics.

Vote-Swinging Factors

McCarthy also listed President Eisenhower and the Democratic National Committee as vote-swinging factors, without saying what he thought either would do for or against him.

He said Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.), who introduced the censure resolution against him, had "bragged" of receiving a letter from Eisenhower congratulating the Vermont senator for his initial attack on McCarthy.

"I don't think Eisenhower would send a letter of commendation," McCarthy said. "If that's true, that would certainly swing some votes against me."

Flanders, at Pebble Beach, Calif. said last night he had "received a brief note of approval" from Eisenhower last March.

Hasn't Heard From Ike

Flanders added that he has "no way of knowing whether the White House has approved or disapproved of what I've said since (against McCarthy) because I haven't heard from the President."

She was first taken ill Sept. 27 and was admitted to the hospital Sept. 30. Her case was not diagnosed as polio until Saturday.

Nehru's 'Resignation' Not Taken Seriously

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Jawaharlal Nehru says his job as Indian prime minister has fatigued him and he may step down, but observers here are not inclined to take him too seriously.

They pointed out today that Nehru in the past has used similar expressions, largely as a threat to whip segments of his Congress party into line. If he is really tired, they said, there are several lesser burdens he might ask others to take over. He holds the posts of Indian foreign minister, defense minister and chairman of the planning commission, as well as the premiership.

Nehru told Congress party members last week he was "rather tired" mentally, stirring reports he would give up the party presidency. When newsmen asked about this yesterday, he replied:

"I have not said anything about the congress presidency. If you want to know the reference, it is to relinquishing the prime ministership."

French Security Charges Mount

2 Defense Ministry Employes Arrested

PARIS (AP)—Police informants say the route French defense secrets traveled to the Communists is coming to light as a result of the arrest of Red Journalist Andre Baranes.

Nabbed in Eastern France Saturday as he tried to flee on a woman's red bicycle to Switzerland, Baranes was charged formally yesterday with endangering the security of the state.

Police sources said the journalist had confessed to being the chief middleman in the transmission to the Communists of secret information on meetings of the National Defense Council.

Though the leaks began during the government of former Premier Joseph Laniel, the furor has posed grave new problems for Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Two high employes of the Defense Ministry, Rene Turpin and Roger Labrusse, were arrested Friday on charges of giving secret information to nonqualified persons. The ministry's secretary general, Jean Mons, was suspended—but not jailed—on suspicion of endangering the state security through negligence.

Turpin was chief of Mons' personal secretariat and Labrusse was in charge of "national protection" at the ministry.

The police informants said Baranes, during 15 hours of uninterrupted questioning by four French counterespionage agents, gave this account:

Labrusse dictated the secret information directy to him, or sometimes passed it by intermediaries who have not been identified.

Baranes never met Turpin and had no contact with him. Police said Turpin had admitted being the original source of the leaks but claimed he had no direct connection with Baranes.

Baranes relayed the secrets to the French Communist party command.

More Campaigning by President Is Requested By GOP Leaders

DENVER (AP)—Some Republican leaders, concerned over the party's chances for continued control of Congress, are calling on President Eisenhower to speak out vigorously and more often in the election campaign.

Rep. Haleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, told a news conference here yesterday, "I don't think we have been able to get across just how good our program is."

His statement showed the concern in some GOP quarters. However, the concern was not reflected last night by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, who said reports reaching his headquarters indicate the GOP is "firmly on the high road to a win next month."

Hal said the reports were based, in the main, on local reaction to the speaking tour of Vice President Nixon.

Halleck met with Eisenhower yesterday for a political strategy conference. He declined to tell newsmen later if he specifically asked the President to play a more active role in the November election campaign, but dclared:

"The President's voice is a strong voice and the people have confidence in him."

And he added:

"I would like to see some repetition of the President's Los Angeles speech."

That was a reference to Eisenhower's Sept. 23 Hollywood Bowl address in which he stripped off the velvet gloves for the first time and said recapture of the legislative branch by the Democrats would lead to a political "field day' in Washington and result in "stagnation" in government.

The President has made no political speeches since then and has only two more major campaign addresses scheduled — a nationwide radio-television address from Denver with Vice President Nixon Friday night and another coast-to-coast appeal Nov. 1, election eve.

Justice Of Peace, Wife Slain By Gunman

PALMERTON, Pa. (AP)—A justice of the peace and his wife were shot down last night as they were entering a church where they sang in the choir.

The assailant fled while a crowd of youths, including the couple's 16-year-old son, chased him.

The victims were Matthew Daneker, 38, and his wife, Mildred, 36.

A witness, the Rev. Milton E. Detterline, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church to which the dead couple belonged, said the assailant was standing "within three feet" of Mrs. Daneker when he fired a pistol. A single bullet struck her in the chest. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Palmerton Hospital.

The pastor said as Daneker grappled with the man for the weapon several shots were fired and Daneker fell. He died at the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Police said they were seeking Daniel Falcone, 48, a shirt factory worker, for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Mendes-France Calls Meeting Of Deputies

Treaty Would Arm, Draw West Germany Into Atlantic Alliance

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe today generally welcomed the momentous decision by the United States and her allies to free and rearm the 50 million West Germans and weld them solidly within the Atlantic alliance against aggression.

Aside from expected leftist opposition, statesmen and newspapers voiced prayerful hopes that the historic "London Act" signed here yesterday by the nine foreign ministers will be put speedily into final treaty form and will win quick approval from the hesitant French Assembly and other member parliaments.

Begin Organizing Campaigns

Wasting no time, French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer hurried from the conference closing to Paris and Bonn and began organizing their campaigns to win the key ratifications from their deputies.

In a surprise move, the French leader called a National Assembly session Thursday afternoon to hear his report on the London meeting. The deputies had been on vacation since their rejection of the European Defense Community Pact Aug. 30 set off the chain of crisis events which culminated in yesterday's agreement.

Mendes-France was reported "four fifths sure" the Chamber of Deputies would approve the sweeping new plan to rearm West Germany. One high French source said the Premier would take his government's life on the outcome by making the Assembly vote an issue of confidence, something he refused to do for EDC.

Schedules Cabinet Report

Adenauer scheduled a report to his Cabinet today and to Parliament tomorrow. None of the parliaments can act, however, until experts incorporate the London agreements into treaties for signing, probably late this month.

In the legislatures of the other conference nations—Britain, the United States, Canada, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—the agreements are expected to have smooth sailing.

Similar approval is anticipated from the other six NATO members: Norway, Denmark, Turkey, Greece, Iceland and Portugal.

The Communists, as anticipated, blasted the parley's outcome. The government-controlled East German radio accused U. S. Secretary of State Dulles of using the strongest possible pressure and blackmail on his allies.

Socialists Oppose Pact

Adenauer's chief opposition at home, the Socialists, stuck to their theme that Germany should be unified before any alliance with the West. Socialist Chairman Erich Ollenhauer said the London declarations contain nothing calculated to unify the divided nation.

But the general West European reaction was summed up by the independent Times of London. It termed the agreements the "most practical and promising scheme that yet has been devised for building a free Europe in peace and security."

"The dream of European unity is started on the road to reality," said Dulles in a statement issued as he took off from London for Washington.

"We have built well for the future of Europe," said British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the organizer of the conference.

The blueprint pounded out by the nine powers in their six-day meeting calls for an end to the American - British - French occupation of West Germany "as quickly as possible." The Allies will remain in Communist-surrounded West Berlin, however.

A Germany army of 500,000 men, 1,350-plane air force and a small navy—no ships over 3,000 tons—are to be created within the next 18 to 24 months.

Harry Arter, Lisbon Harness Maker, Active As Craftsman

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

LISBON — It was 1893. The Columbian Exposition at Chicago, the world's largest fair, had just ended.

Along Lisbon's main street, a little boy tugged at his father's coat sleeve, urging him to walk faster, as they headed toward the Park Ave. harness shop.

For the father, Alpheus Arter, proprietor of the shop, had brought back from the Chicago fair a very wonderful thing to the boy's imagination — a wooden horse, life-size and complete with genuine mane and tail.

The boy, whose eyes widened at the sight of the dapple-gray display horse, is today the operator of the harness shop his father founded .

Now a s ght that passing children still marvel at, the 60-year-old "Trogan' horse stands in the plate-glass window, as a symbol of a passing occupation. Here is where Harry Arter, 74 - year - old harness maker, plies his trade, which is fast becoming only a nostalgic memory for oldtime horselovers.

ARTER, ONE OF the few harness makers left in this section of the country, says his business now is limited mostly to repairing and treating harnesses, making bridles and repair work on suitcases, ladies handbags and other leather items.

One of his common jobs is oiling harnesses to save them from the horses' salty sweat. Chiefly a winter chore, the harnesses are loaded into a wire basket, then lowered into a large vat full of neatsfoot oil, one of the best leather preservers.

Arter says he used to treat as many as 250 harnesses a winter when business was booming; now he oils only about 30 a year since the popular influx of tractors.

Farmers who still stick by horses for their field work or as a supplement to their tractors come long distances to patron ze Arter's shop. Besides Columbiana County, business comes from Trumbull, Mahoning and Stark Counties and western Pennsylvania.

THE HORSE IS fading into the past, Arter says philosophocially, "because you can't stop progress." Numbers of saddle horses and ponies, which experienced a popularity boom several years ago, have slipped, too, he said.

Although purchase of the wooden horse stands out boldly among Arter' boyhood memories, an even older trophy which he prizes is a black, race horse's head, cut from wood.

The head, portraying a pacer just finishing a hard race, was carved by an East Rochester woodworker about 75 years ago, Arter claims.

It is a skillful likeness of an exhausted horse, nostrils dilated, blood vessels at the bursting stage and mane disheveled.

"I wouldn't part with either object for any money as long as I life," the oldtimer said. He admitted he has had many handsome cash offers from collectors.

HARRY, WHO grew up with horse fragrance and pungent leather odors about him, was tutored in the harness business by his father, who founded one of Lisbon's liviest business when horses were were in the r heyday.

In Spanish - American War days, and later, thirty women seated at sewing machines and twenty men leather - cutting kept the old South Market St. factory buzzing in the manufacture of harnesses for gigs or one-horse carriages.

Alpheus, who directed operations and often worked alongside his wor ers, started the business after he was mustered out of the Civil War Army. His shop was located in other parts of town before the construction of the brick S. Market St. building. He died in 1927 at 86 years.

The year before his father's death, Harry became full owner of the Park Ave. retailing shop, although by that time, the harness factory had closed.

He served on the village council for 14 years, part of the time as president.

Clothiers' Lament

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you find your name on the list of America's 10 best dressed men this year?

Well, don't brood about it if you didn't. J. Fred Muggs, the celebrated television star. has more than 100 suits — and he wasn't nominated either.

He is making up a rival list of the 10 best dressed chimpanzes in America, and none of the men who crowded him off the custom tailors' list even get honorable mention on his list. In fact, on his own list J. Fred Muggs has put his own name down 10 times.

There is always a bit of grumbling over the annual selection of the 10 best dressed men. The suspicion always arises that the choices are made ess on what a man actually wear than on his blood (deep blue), wealth, position or current fame in the world.

So if you were bypassed this year again you might take some consolation from Leo Ullman, chairman of the Philadelphia Men's Fashion Council, who said:

"It would be easy to pick 50,000 men in America who are equally well dressed."

There! Now you feel better?

As a matter of fact. Ullman thinks that for $150 "you can dress from head to foot as well as the best dressed men anywhere.

"No one could tell you from a man on the so-called top 10 list."

Here is how Ullman would draw up his $150 wardrobe: Suit, $60, shoes, $12; hat, $10, shirt, $4; necktie, $2.50; socks, $1; underclothing, $3; topcoat, $55. That comes to $147.50 — leaving you $2.50 for a belt or some handkerchiefs.

But the multi - million dollar men's clothing industry is in the doldrums today because the average man doesn't even buy half a suit a year although his wife gets four to six new dresses or suits a year.

"There are more than 50 million men in America, but we turn out only about 20 million suits a year—and this year the figure may only be 18 million' said Ullman.

"Every clothier has to turn out sports coats and slacks now—in self defense.

"People's habits have changed. They are less social. Television has been a big factor. Men don't dress up as much. They don't go out as often. They have forgotten the kick that buying new clothes gives them. They just sit at home in the evening in front of their TV sets."

"Even well-to-do men often affect sloppy or careless attire. Of course, being well - dressed isn't really as important to them as it is for the average man. They can afford to look like characters, since they already have achieved success."

Ullman thinks the men's clothing market has fallen off mostly in small towns, where men pay less attention to clothing than they did a generation ago.

"In big cities like New York, Chicago, or San Francisco," he said, "men still buy a couple of new suits a year.

"And formal evening wear has been coming back in the cities, too. That's a good sign.

What are the style trends for the guy who still cares what he wears?

"Charcoal gray and browns will still be in high favor this season,' Ullman said. "But the wedge-shaped suit with the football shoulders is out — even here on Broadway.

"The tall, narrow look is popular. The three - brown suit with narrow lapels and natural shoulders is preferred. The center vent in the coat is coming back.

"Pants also are becoming narrower, and there is a trend away from pleats.'

This means that papa, whether he likes it or not is soon going to look either like a fugitive from the Princeton campus—or a hangover from the Gay Nineties.

Earthquake Rocks Alaska, No One Hurt

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, (AP — Tall buildings rocked and rolled and residents fled to the streets in their night clothes early yesterday in an earthquake seismologists said would have caused disaster if the epicenter was in a populated area.

No casualties were reported, however.

The tremor shook a 1,000-mile area of the Alaska mainland but was felt most severely in a triangular area 80 to 100 miles west and south of here.

It cracked building walls and shattered windows at Anchorage, Seward, Valdez and Homer and was felt at Fairbanks, Cordova Kodiak and Yakutat. Some residents of Anchorages two 14-story apartment buildings fled to the street in their night clothes.

Sohio brings you a new way to buy anti-freeze that may save you up to $10 this winter

SOHIO GUARANTEED RADIATOR PROTECTION

Ordinarily when you protect your radiator with non-evaporative anti-freeze in the Fall, you're never sure but what you'll need to add more later on to replace what may be lost through leakage or other causes.

But now there is a way to buy non-evaporative anti-freeze which completely eliminates the possibility of a replacement expense that might be as much as $10! It's Sohio Guaranteed Radiator Protection. And it's available only with Atlas Perma-Guard. With it you have a guarantee that Sohio will give you replacement anti-freeze free if you lose protection through leakage, boil-over, or any other cause. Yet, Guaranteed Radiator Protection with Atlas Perma-Guard costs you no more than one fill of other non-evaporative anti-freezes without the guarantee!

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

1 First, Sohio thoroughly checks your car's cooling system, to be sure that it's watertight.

2 Next, your radiator is protected to 20° below zero with Atlas Perma-Guard—non-evaporative anti-freeze.

3 You get a written guarantee that the solution in your radiator will be protected against loss until April 1, 1955.

Father Saves Twin Sons When Car Hits House

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ed Adaska was sitting on the couch wathing his 17-month-old twin sons play on the living room floor yesterday when he looked out the window and saw the car. It was careening across the lawn, straight for his basement apartment.

Adasks grabbed the babies, pulled them away from the window and shielded them with his body as the car ripped halfway into the room in a spray of glass and wood. An eight-foot beam crashed down on the spot where the twins — Larry and Jerry — had been crawling only seconds before.

The 28-year-old welder was cut on the back and shoulders by flying debris, but his boys were unharmed. His wife, Shirley, 22, was in the kitchen at the time.

In the car were Pedro Cruz, 21, and Francisco Morales, 27, who were treated for cuts and bruises. Their car skidded into the apartment after colliding with another auto at a nearby intersection. Police did not learn immediately who was driving.

'Empoy Handicapped' Week Is Observed

Salem will join this week in the observance of National "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.'

Following proclamations by President Eisenhower and Governor Frank J. Lausche, Mayor Dean B Cranmer yesterday localized the observance by signing a similiar declaration.

The week, the tenth such annual observance, is set aside to remind everybody of the need to employ persons who are suffering physical handicaps, but who could still fulfill the requirements of an employer if given the right job.

In signing the declaration, Mayor Cranmer said that he feels that employers should attempt to employ the physically handicapped whenever possible.

At a meeting Thursday evening, a committee directed by Byron Griffith of the local Ohio State Employment office, laid plans for the city's observance.

Supreme Court Begins Term

Final Decrees Seen In Segregation Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today begins a new term that is expected to produce final decrees in the five famed public school segregation cases.

Getting an early start on the desegregation task, the court in a pre-term conference set the week of Dec. 6 for hearing new arguments and reports intended to help it determine how and when to order school integration into effect.

The renewed arguments were requested by the court when it declared last May 17 that separation of white and Negro pupils in public schools is unconstitutional. Final orders putting that decison into effect could come early in 10;5, but some lawyers predict they will be handed down toward the end of the present school term.

The Topeka, Kan., Board of Education, defendants in one of the five cases decided last May, has informed the court it is ending segregation "as rapidly as practicable" and no further order by the high court is necessary. The board said it planned to have all segregation ended by September 1955 and was experiencing "full public cooperation and acceptance."

Segregation in the District of Columbia is being ended rapidly, while in Delaware a desegregation program has run into some intense opposition.

Virginia and South Carolina, the other states directly involved in the May decision, apparently continue their official stand against integration.

Besides these five, North Carolina, Arkansas, Texas, Florida, Maryland, Tennessee and Oklahoma asked permission to take part in the December sessions.

Today's court session by long precedent is devoted to opening formalities. The law business of the court gets under way in full on Oct. 11 when the justices announce whether they have granted or denied hearings on some 400 new appeals filed during the summer recess.

Second-Class Citizens

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell admit they are having an honest difference of opinion, and their fellow Americans need to know what it is.

The secretary of commerce wants a restudy of the laws, interpretations and precedents that have made labor unions immune to anti-trust laws. The secretary of labor is opposed to re-opening this ticklish issue of public policy.

But Weeks contends that failure to do something about it makes second-class citizens of everybody in the United States except the labor union bosses who can violate the spirit and letter of the ani-trust laws with impunity. This is exactly what happened. The union bosses have a privilege that no one else can claim, merely because they are classified as unionists, instead of something else.

Some of them are, in fact, politicians, financiers and businessmen, besides being union officials. But as long as they put their union identity first they have the right to do things no one else can do. This has nothing whatever to do with the right of working men and women to organize and bargain collectively.

If the anti-trust laws were revised, as Weeks thinks they should be, bona fide organizing activities still would be immune to anti-trust provisions. Only those activities in restraint of trade practiced by the unions whose executives use their organizations wealth to engage in all kinds of business operations would be affected.

It is Secretary Weeks' job to give commerece a fair shake. It is Secretary Mitchell's job to protect the rights of labor. If these two didn't have an argument over the immunity of labor unions to anti-trus laws, one of them would be guilty of nonfeasance.

Robert L. Doughton

The secret of representative democracy's success in a world whose authoritarians always have wanted it to fail was demonstrated in the public career of Robert L. Doughton, the former North Carolina congressman who died Friday at the age of 90.

Doughton's public career began in 1908 when he was elected to the North Carolina legislature. He came to Washington in the 62nd Congress in 1911 and piled up seniority at a rate that made him the chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee from 1933 until his retirement 20 years later.

It was conceded by members of both parties that Rep. Doughton carried more know-how about tax legislation in his head than any other member of Congress. Not only was he wise in the ways of taxation, but he possessed a stubborn integrity that made him the despair of the high-powered reformers who had a field day in Washington from 1933 to the beginning of World War II.

He earned the nickname of "Muley" by refusing to be budged when he thought he was right. Although the era of his reign over tax matters was marked by huge deficits, it also was marked by tax revenue beyond the wildest expectations of budget experts. Doughton deserved most of the credit. When there was a hard job to do, he knew how to do it because he had learned in the hard school of experience.

That is the secret of representative democracy, which draws on the resources of all the people all the time for doing all the things that need to be done.

Cpl. Batchelor Gets Life

Some of his countrymen who are willing to sit in harsh judgment on their fellowmen may have misgivings about a life sentence for Cpl. Claude Batchelor, one of the enlisted men who collaborated with the Communists in Korea after being taken prisoner.

Granted that the things Batchelor did were unworthy of an American soldier and he must be punished for them, it then needs to be granted that this young man who had been in the U.S. Army from the age of 16 lacked the background for well rounded citizenship.

He had no schooling. He had no means of knowing what he would be up against as a prisoner of the Communists. He had never been given the benefit of the anti-indoctrination training the Pentagon now believes will be necessary if American soldiers are to resist Communist "brain washing."

In effect, it was this young man's tough luck to be in uniform in Korea under circumstances that made his collaboration with his captors almost inevitable. Gen. Dean was willing to testify in behalf of another oficer accused of collaborating that he, himself, lacked the mental resources to resist the "brain-washing" tactics of his Communist captors.

Cpl. Batchelor is an example of something that must not be allowed to happen in the U.S. Army. The trouble is he also is an example of something that did happen long before he became a befuddled prisoner of the Chinese Communists in Korea.

Frowns and scowls lost people lots of friends. They'd be smart to take another took.

'Mr. Publisher'

The 'Average Reader' Discusses Newspapers

As a sequel to I Am Your Newspaper," prepared for National Newspaper Week in 1953, the following article, representing the opinions of the readers, is herewith reprinted by permission of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

I am your reader.

For only a few cents each day I purchase your newspaper.

For the price of that small, hard coin I expect to be kept informed by you of what goes on in my community, state, nation, and in the whole world.

That is a large order, I know. But I expect it from you, Mr. Publisher, and so do the more than 55 million other readers who depend on their daily newspapers for information to be read and studied when convenient before or after a day's work.

Nothing is so vital to the continued welfare of our country, to the maintaining of our form of government, to our freedom, than an informed, intelligent and alert public opinion. As your reader, I am a part of that public opinion.

The contribution you have been aking and continue to make to maintain all of the things that are dear to all of us is an incalculably valuable one.

Because we together — you as a newspaper publisher, and I as a reader of your newspaper — depend on each other and constitute an unyielding bulwark against any possible aggressor from within or without, it seems to me we should know each other better.

I judge you every day by your product.

OCCASIONALLY you hear from me through my letters to your editor, complaining about something, or commenting on things that interest me at the moment. Aside from that, however, we go our respecive ways.

I am curious about everything that goes on around me. I want to know. I am as interested in the price of eggs as in the splitting of the atom, the price of a postage stamp, or the measurements of Miss America.

And I expect you to tell me, Mr. Publisher. Here are some of the things I expect from you.

The very first thing is leadership.

It is not always necessary that you be right. As long as I know that in stating your position you do so from a clear conviction that it is in the best of the public's interest, I will understand, even though I may disagree with you sometimes.

I also expect you to focus the spotlight on the bad things that occur. But do mix the good with the bad.

I am interested in improving the the bad.

I am interested in improving the functions of my government. I want good government. And I want good men and wome to represent me i our law-making bodies at all levels.

TELL ME ABOUT our council meetings.

Tell me about our city government.

And tell me about what the state legislators are doing, and what i being discussed in Washington.

Tell me about the dog catcher in our community, and how the sheriff performs his duties, or hte justice of the peace, and how our police department is functioning, or failing to do so.

Sometimes you will run into obstacles in reporting the news. Here and there a recalcitrant misguided elected public official will refuse to give you information about what he is doing, or plans to do.

Tell me about those incidents, and keep harping on them. Perhaps I won't act immediately. You see, I am also a tolerant person, and people sometimes get the impression they can push me around at will. But once I am really aroused, you will be surprised at the results "we" — you and I— can achieve.

"We" — you and I, Mr. Publisher — have it within our power to "throw out the rascals." We can clean house any time we make up our minds to do so by the simple expedient of the ballot box.

But to do that we need guidance, we need leadership — your leadership. And we need accurate information on which to base our final decisions.

I am not afraid to face facts, and I expect you to tell them to me as they develop, and as they are, not as somebody would like to have me believe they might be.

Don't try to "protect" me.

I would rather be told about unpleasant things as they occur, than o be confronted suddenly with an obstacle or condition that would take superhuman effort to remove r rectify.

SOMEBODY ALWAYS wants to "educate" the people to make them "understand" certain causes.

Don't you let your newspaper be used by those people. I prefer to get tht news about the causes the groups are interested in, and your editorial comment about how those causes stack up. I'll go it alone from there, "uneducated" if need be. I want the freedom to make up my own mind.

Whenever a guest comes to my home, I expect him to behave like a gentleman. I expect the same thing from a newspaper.

I expect your news presentation and other contents of your newspaper to be clean and wholesome.

I expect to be able to let my children read your comics without fear of having them encounter obscenities or horrors or glorified crime.

I expect yur advertising to be truthful and honest to the best of your ability.

20$p,$ect you to publish and make clear to me the values and objectives of community life.

I expect my newspaper to be the forum for the exchange of comment and criticism.

What I want is a fully - rounded news report, presented in a way that allows me to make up my own mind.

My family and I read your advertising pages religiously. The ads you run give us a chance to keep up with what manufacturers are producing, to price their products, one against the other, to see where they may be purchased, and to judge for ourselves the quality of merchandise offered for sale.

To my family and me advertising is news.

It is as important a part of our newspaper as any other information carried.

WE MAKE UP our weekly grocery list from the many food ads which you feature. We budget our income, and food shopping via the advertising route has been helping us to keep within our budget.

My family and I also check closely on fashions and style trends, both for the male and female members of our group.

Both of our children have definite ideas as to what they want to wear.

So does my wife. And so do I.

All of us want to see the ads featuring the merchandise first, together with prices, before we make our final selections of anything from a spool of thread to a new automobile.

I like the handy combination of news and advertising in my daily newspaper. It enables me to get my information whenever I want it, without keeping my ear or eyes glued to a radio or television set.

These then, are some of the things I wanted to tell you about, Mr. Publisher.

I hope you don't mind my speaking so frankly and so freely.

But if we are to make this country a better place to live in for ourselves and for our children, we need a dependable body of well-informed people willing to do their share to make and maintain it so, no matter at wht scrifice.

I'm doing my share, as I'm sure you will continue to do yours.

If we both give the best ahat is in us, perhaps the world some day will return in kind to us.

The Hand Of Authority

Stalin's Changes In The Communist Party

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Before Stalin, the International Communist party included many facets of opinion. There were many varieties of view and many differences as to methods of winning the world to Comunism The party congresses were really often meetings at which the debate was tense and exciting. Also, the Comintern was not bound to Russia which was only one country in it. In fact there were times when the German Communist party was as important as the Russian party and the hope of the Bolsheviks was that Germany would stage the major Marxist Revolution.

Sokolsky

Stalin changed all that. He destroyed all dissent, all differences of opinion. He had those who opposed him killed or exiled. He reduced the Comintern from an international organization to a branch of the Kremlin.

The Russian Communist party became the directing agency of the revolutionary movement.

RUSH FISCHER, who had been one of the effective heads of the German party, cites this example of what Stalin did to remove her from the Presidium of the Comintern, in her book, "Stalin and German Communism":

"Stalin, however, had another plan. All members of the Presidium, myself included, were required under Comintern discipline to sign the Open Letter and then to defend it in our parties. Thus I was driven to sign my own political death warrant and to confess my sins in public."

Further she wrote:

"Thus the principle of hierarchical discipline was applied against me. If there are differences in the Politbuo, its decision by majority vote is binding on all members and they are not allowed by Bolshevik precepts to discuss their point of difference even in the Central Committee.

"Dissidents in the Central Committee must defend the committee's point of view even in the party; party decisions have to be defended outside the party even by members who disagree with them. Thus at every level disagreement is kept to th group of minimum size, and at each step down the hierarchical scale the next larger body is presented with a unanimous mandate.

"The secrecy of each body's deliberations is sacred; for a member of a committee to discuss them with someone in a lower hierarchical unit is the Communist equivalent of a serious misdemanor."

THIS WAS in 1925, when Stalin was clearing away the impediments to his power. He sought to build a dictatorship and he did it at the cost of every principle of decency.

One reason that Stalin was so successful, not only in Russia but in the Communist parties of all countries, was that he split the parties into left and right and middle-of-the-road and also he put large numbers of members on his payroll. For instance, about one-twelfth of the German party was in Russian pay.

What share of the payroll of the American party was on the Russian payroll? How many Chinese Communists were on the Russian payroll?

Miss Fischer says of this:

"Bureaucrats are everyshere the props of a political apparatus; the peculiar feature of these Russian cadres within German labor was their secret coordination, their military control by secret agents, their direct affiliation with the center in Moscow.."

In a word, it was an astute corruption of those who could not turn back from the course they had adopted. The state party and the party state were Stalin's achievement which Hitler copied. These two men have disturbed our age and our lives more than any other forces.

THE STRENGTH, for instance, of the American two-party system is that it recognizes vast differences of view. Stalin and Hitler killed off all differences of point of view.

Those who shout for unity in the United States have already forgotten that unity existed in Stalin's Russia and Hitler's Germany. They killed off every individual who impared unity.

Our strength is in our differences, not in unity. When we create a political system which is intolerant of differences, we shall be following the example of Stalin who rejected every departure from an acceptance of the views of the leadership of the party of which he became the sole leader.

The ADA is an agency of unity and conformity in the United States. It has invaded both parties, supporting individuals who will use existing parties as vehicles for election but remaining true to the ADA program. Republicans are slowly waking up to this peril.

Pattern For Coalition

The Liberal party in New York is essentially the ADA, organized as a legal state political party. Leadership in the party is primarly ADA. The party's platform is the nearest thing we have in the United States to the Labor Party in Tritain.

The Liberal party originated when a considerable number of members of the old American Labor party of New York left that group because it was permeated with Communists. The late Vito Marcantonio kept the American Labor party together until last year when, after finding its membership deserting to the Democrats, he decided that it was all but dead. And now Marcantonio is dead and the Liberal party remains.

David Dubinsky is easily the strongest and apparently the dominant figure in the party.

Adolph Berle, once a FDR brain truster, is the nominal chairman, while Alex Rose, who is president of the hatters' union is the practical operator.

EDWARD J. FLYNN, as boss of the Bronx and New York Democratic National Committeeman, always strongly disapproved of an alliance between the Democrats and the Liberal party. He reasoned quite correctly, that such an alliance would ultimately give the Liberals a balance of power and would also alienate the few remaining conservative Democrats in New York State.

Since Flynn passed from the scene and the Dewey domination in Albany has prevailed, the Democrats eagerly accept the Liberal party endorsement.

Certainly that was true this year when Averell Harriman, after his nomination as Democratic candidate for governor, went to the Liberal leaders and abjectly solicited their support. This they freely gave, not only to Harriman, but to FDR, Jr. and the rest of the ticket.

Alex Rose in giving his blessing tc the double nomination, said that it constituted "a pattern of coalition." Indeed it does, and an exadination of the platforms of the two parties shows a perfect amalgam of hypocrisy on one hand and radicalism on the other.

THE DEMOCRATIC platform is a fairly innocuous document. It deals almost entirely with state issues and, as is true of all platforms of all parties, it is full of generalities.

This document is obviously meant to catch conservative Democrats who would violently object to the socialism of the Liberals. Thus, in New York a method has been found to permit candidates to face both ways without trying to tie inconsistency into a single platform.

Faced by a reporter's question about his attitude toward the two platforms, FDR Jr. devised a curious solution. He said that, while he was running on the Democratic platform, he regarded the Liberal platform as a "guide."

Thus the ship is conservative, but the navigator is radical. On state issues he is a Democrat, but on national issues he is socialist.

THIS METHOD is suggested as a means of relieving Adlai Stevenson of embarrassment in reconciling the two wings of his party. He and Chairman Mitchell should let conservative Democrats make the Democratic platform in 1956 and covertly encourage David Dubinsky and Alec Rose to extend their Liberal party to the whole United States.

Perhaps Stevenson could even move some of the more embarrassing members of his current following, such as Humphrey of Minnesota and Jackson of Washington, into the new Liberal party.

Bender Is Slightly Favored Over Burke For U.S. Senator

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of several stories by rovin Associated Press reporters analyzing the campaign in key states.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft has been dead for 14 months but the dry, midwestern twang of his voice still echoes across this state in the bitter political campaign being waged for control of Congress.

It is almost as if Taft himself were taking part in the fight, helping to shape the arguments and issues and the emotional content. The weight of his influence is being felt through the followers he left behind him and their conservative political philosophy which may or may not accurately reflect the thinking of Taft.

Oddly enough, while Taft semed able to put his presidential disappointments behind him and to emerge as President Eisenhower's staunch supporter—a number of his followers haven't been able to do it. Many of them aren't reconciled yet to "that man Eisenhower," to his polilicies, and to the loss of Taft's leadership.

Taft was known as an "organization man" but some of those he spoke for are making it more difficult for a Republican candidate to be elected.

The reason lies in the inertia in the Taft wing of the Republican party, an inertia that is an acknowledged problem to those trying to get Rep. George H. Bender elected to the Senae sea held so long by Taft.

One Republican leader who is working hard in the campaign said:

"The world has moved on since Bob Taft's passing. We've got to face the facts of life in which we are dealing with new personalities and new problems in our party. Too many of the Taft people still are living in a dream world, thinking of what would have been done if Taft had been here.

"The truth is that Taft would have been right out there fighting for Eisenhower and what he's trying to do. We've got to quit griping about the small parts of the Eisenhower program we don't likeand look at the overall program which is good."

GOP state chairman Ray Bliss readily says that one of his big problems is to get the Taft-Eisenhower wings of the party meshed into a unit which will push hard for a Bender victory over the Democratic nominee, Sen. Thomas A Burke of Cleveland. Burke was named by Democratic Gov. Frank Lausche Oct. 12, 1953 to succeed Taft until the general election. The Nov. 2 election is for the remaining two years of the Taft term.

Bliss said in an interview he should have had his campaign organization rolling as far back as last February, but that the primary fight between Bender and William Saxbe of Mechanicsburg for the nomination delayed things.

"Now the trick is to tie the party together and get the Taft people into the fight," Bliss said. "We're making progres. I've been able to do more in the past week than in the previous two months and our situation is looking good.

"Some of our people who didn't think Bender had a chance two months ago now say he's a certain winner. The winning pschology is at work."

The key to the Bender-Burke contest may well lie in Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) which casts about one-fifth of the state's total vote. Both Burke and Bender come from the Cleveland district.

Eugene H. Hanhart, Democratic state chairman, said:

"The race could be decided by the workers' and farmers' pocketbooks. The average person is bound to be influeced by the size of his take-home pay—and the take-home pay has dropped. Farm prices have dropped and the workers aren't getting the overtime pay they once did—while a good many of them are out of work or working only three or four days a week. This situation is working in our favor."

At this stage, the Bender-Burke race looks like a ding-dong fight, with sideline opinion appearing to favor Bender slightly in a jungle of unknown factors that might swing the election in either direction. Both sides are "running scared" and aren't inclined to make any sweeping victory claims.

Bender's name is better known throughout the state than Burke's. He has made his name known to the voters in his former campaigns for the office of representative-at-large, a post since abolished. Bender now represents the 23rd District in Cuyahoga County outside of Cleveland.

Also, Bender's name and face became familiar to Ohioans as the cheer leader and songmaster for Taft at the 1952 GOP national convention. Whether he won or lost friends by his television antics is a debatable point, but at least many voters know him.

"I've been for what Eisenhower stands on for years,' Bender said in an interview. "Im no reactionarey or me-too candidate and I didn't have to do a flip-flop to support Ike. I go for Eisenhower's philosophy of being liberal in matters dealing with human rights and being conservative in economic affairs."

On the other side, Burke is best known in Cleveland, where he was mayor until he accepted the short-term Senate appointment. He has been a good vote-getter in his home town, but just how far this popularity extends into the state is a question.

Burke is working hard to make his name better known throughout the state, particularly in southern Ohio where he hopes to offset Bender's expected strength. Some think he might do it with a strong democratic vote in Dayton.

The situation looks good,' Burke said during a swing through the downstate area. "I would say unemployment in the state is the big issue. It's true that unemployment may be no worse than it was in 1949 during the Truman administration, but that's not much of an argument for the Republicans in influencing the man who's out of a job right now.'

Another thing in Burke's favor is that he will be running alongside Gov. Frank J. Lausche, the popular Democratic governor, who is seeking an unprecedented fifth term. Lausche's opponent is Auditor of State James A. Rhodes, former Columbus mayor.

In the past, Lausche hasn't strived to transfer his own huge personal popularity to other Democratic candidates. This has caused some bitter feeling within the party. But the governor can afford to be independent because of his vote-getting appeal.

In the Eisenhower vote boom of 1952, Lausche won re - election easily. He almost ran as strongly as Eisenhower. The vote: Eisenhower 2,100,391; Lausche 2,015110. Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson polled 1,60,367 votes.

Burke says Lausche has made a campaign film for him and that also the governor will make several platform appearances with him across the state.

In the House races some veteran observers say they wouldn't be surprised if there should be no net change in the House delegation which is now composed of 16 Republicans, 5 democrats, 1, Independent, and 1 vacancy.

The Democrats are inclined, however, to be considerably more optimistic than the Republicans in predicting House gains because they claim a strong Democratic trend has set in.

Democratic chairman Hanhart said his party will hold its present House strength and gain seats in the First (Cincinnati), Third (Dayton), Ninth (Toledo) and Fourteenth (Akron) districts. He listed Democratic chances as good in the Second (Cincinnati) and Sixteenth (Canton) districts.

GOP chairman Bliss predicted Democrats will be replaced in the Sixth (Portsmouth) and Fifteenth (Cambridge) districts while GOP candidates hold onto their present strength and perhaps gain in other "marginal' districts.

September Weather Benefited Farmers

Weather during the month of September was a real asset to the farmer, according to L. H. Copeland, Millport weather forecaster.

Corn improved during the month and will provide a near normal crop. Pastures were good all month, Copeland said.

However, the forecaster points out, the underground water level is still low and needs rain before winter arrives. copeland precited at least two more weeks of nice weather, but not much more because autumn calms are now beginning to appear.

As far as the month's temperatures were concerned, the average for last month was just a little higher than the 62-year average of 63 degrees for September. Last month's average was 64.5. Labor Day Sept. 6, was the hottest day of the month, when 97 was recorded, while Sept. 24 was the coolest with a 31 reading.

Last month's rainfall of 2.1 inches was just a little below the 62-year normal of 2.94 inches Copeland reports. Still, the first nine months of this year have had 4.41 inches more rain than the average.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Zora Dishong of Columbiana, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary DeLucia of Washingtonville.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Lloyd Rupert, the bride repeated the marriage vows with the bridegroom at the altar, which was banked with palms and ferns and deocrated with twin vases of white gladioli and pompons. Candelabra enhanced the setting.

Rev. D. J. Voelm pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Leona Ehrhart of Columbiana, organist, presented the nuptial music.

The bride's ballerina gown of lace and net over white satin was fashioned with a net yoke and long pointed sleeves. She wore a fingertip veil held in place with a lace and satin headpiece. Her wedding bouquet of white pompons with pink sweetheart roses and streamers was carried on a white Bible.

Miss Dorothy Allen of Columbiana, maid of honor, was dressed in a yellow ballerina length lace and net gown with matching net headpiece.

Charles Grubbs of Lisbon served as best man, and G. Richard Bryan of Salem and Charles Cannon of North Lima ushered.

The bride's mother complemented her two piece brown crepe dress with a pink rose corsage. Attird in red velvet, the bridegroom's mother wore a white rose corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 125 was held in the church dining room. Mrs. Charles Cannon, aunt of the bride, cut the three-tier wedding cake. Another aunt, Mrs. Clifford Plummer, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Franklin Brooks, poured.

Ohio State U. To Face Twice-Beaten Illini This Week

Bucks Boast Impressive Wins Over Indiana And California

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's scintillating Bucks, with impressive victories over Indiana inand California locked up to take the road for the first time this week as they invade Ilinois for a crack at Ray Eliot's twice-beaten Illini.

A year ago the Illinois team, a two-touchdown underdog, came to Columbus and walked away with a 41-20 upset as Mickey Bates and J. C. Caroline ran over, around and through the Ohio team.

The two Illini speedsters have been stopped cold by Penn State and Stanford, but Ohio's Hopalong Cassady has counted four touchdowns, two in each game—and the Bucks are out to avenge last year's loss.

The Ohio-Illini game is one of 12 interstate contests dotting the weekend slate for Buckeye schools. The attractive 23-game schedule lists 9 night games—including two in the Mid-American, five in the Ohio Conference, and one in the Md-Ohio.

Cincinnati's Bearcats, leading the state with three straight conquests, go against Marquette on the latter's field Saturday night. Miami's two-time winners eked out a 27-26 victory over Marquette last weekend.

The Ohio teams must break even in the 12 interstate frays if they are to stay ahead in that department. After losing 6 of 10 last weekend, the Buckeye boys now have 14 victories, 13 losses and one deadlock against the outsiders for the season, with a 427 to 408 scoring edge.

Home fields have had little effect on results in Ohio this year. Host teams have won 26, lost 25 and tied 2.

With the season just getting under way, only Kent State, Capital, Ashland and Wooster—all winners of two straight—have kept their goal lines unsullied.

Cincinnati is out front in scoring with 103 for three games, but Kent State, with 91 for two tilts has the better average. Hiram, Ohio Northern and Kenyon haven't scored.

Defiance, last year's only unbeaten-untied team in Ohio, saw its nine-game winning streak halted Saturday as Kalamazoo came up with a 7-0 victory. Ohio Wesleyan, second a year ago with eight wins and one tie, saw its hopes wrecked 30-27 as Akron's Marion Rossi booted a last-period field goal to end the Bishops' 14-game unbeaten streak. All the other teams were beaten at least once last season.

Key Pro Grid Games On Tap This Weekend

By The Associated Press

Key games involving first place in both divisions of the National Football League are on tap this week even though the play-for-pay boys have been in action only two weeks.

The first of the week-end's top contests involves the Philadelphia Eagles and the Pittsburgh Steelers at Philadelphia Saturday night. Both are unbeaten in two games.

And then on Sunday, the champion Detroit Lions, winner of their lone game, will entertain the powerful Los Angeles Rams. The Rams also are unbeaten but have been tied by the San Francisco 49'ers. San Francisco, with a victory and a tie, meets the winless Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee Sunday.

The setup for such important games so early in the season came about when Pittsburgh defeated Washington 37-7 Saturday night and the Eagles trimmed the Chicago Cardinals 35-16 yesterday. The New York Giants lost a chance to keep pace by dropping a 20-14 Saturday decision to the Baltimore Colts.

Detroit's scheduled encounter with Cleveland was postponed because of the possibility the Browns' field would be in use for the World Series. But neither the Rams or 49ers were able to make hay as they played to a 24-24 deadlock before 93.55 fans in Los Angeles. In the only other game played yesterday, the Chicago Bears downed the Green Bay Packers 10-3.

Cassady Takes Lead In Scoring Parade

CHICAGO (AP) — Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Ohio State's quick-moving halfback, has taken an early lead in the Big Ten scoring parade with 24 points.

Cassady has scored four touchdowns in Ohio State's two victories over Indiana and California. He counted twice in each game.

Clary Bratt of Wisconsin, and Iowa's Earl Smith and Dick McNamara of Minnesota are tied for second with 18 points each.

WINS WALKING RACE

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Traveling six miles in 47 minutes and 41, Wayne Yarcho of Dayton yesterday won a walking race sponsored by the Ohio Amateur Athletic Assn. The race was held near Venice in conjunction with the fall sportsman show of the Southern Ohio Dog and Game Protective Assn.

Cleveland Rooters Have Monday Blues

CLEVELAND (AP) — They're still talking about the Indians here today, but not in the same old way.

Less than a week ago, the morning bus ride downtown was filled with talk of victory, how the Indians would do it in six games or maybe even five.

But today was a blue, blue Monday for Tribe rooters. Four straight losses to the New York Giants—a smashing defeat in the World Series—changed the morning small talk to phrases like:

"That's the way it goes. . .that's baseball. . .they shoulda changed the pitchers oftener. . .what can you say. . ."

And heard in some quarters was that old Cleveland lament—"They just haven't got it in the clutch."

Down in Cleveland Stadium, cool and empty now that series fever has gone, two men close to the Indians were doing some talking, too. Just what about, no one knows, because General Manger Hank Greenberg and Manager Al Lopez refused to be specific.

Trades? No names, mind you, but Manger Lopez did say:

"We knew what our weaknesses were even before we went into the Word Series and now we're going to try to improve the club for next year. We would have done this even if we had won." He declined to way whether any of his big three pitching staff—Mike Garcia, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon—were being considered for barter.

NAME ROOKIES OF YEAR

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News yesterday named Wally Moon, hard-hitting St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, and Bob Grim, 20-game winner for the New York Yankees, as its major league rookies of the year.

TOUCHDOWN PASS—Purdue end Johnny Kerr (86) grabs a pass in the end zone to score first touchdown in first quarter against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Notre-Dame halfback Jim Morse is unsuccessful in trying to bat the ball from Kerr's hand. Purdue upset the Irish by winning, 27-14.

Mays' Catch Of Wertz's Hit Started Downfall Of Indians

By GAYLE TALBOT

CLEVELAND (AP) — They were saying in this stricken city today that the World Series would have been an entirely different proposition if Willie Mays hadn't made that outlandish catch of Vic Wertz's potential game wrecker on the first day at the Polo Grounds.

Even General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians subscribed to this sentiment. The suffering citizens could be right to some extent.

But for Willie's tremendous feat the Tribe almost certainly would have won the opener, and with that one under their belts Al Lopez's athletes might not have looked quite so terrible as they did in the succeeding games. But to suggest that they might have beaten the New York Giants under any circumstances borders on the ridiculous.

The Giants are a very fine ball team from stem to stern, while the American League champions simply are not a solid outfit. After you've said that they have two of the game's best pitchers in Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, you've just about exhausted the subject. After watching the Indians roll over and play dead against Leo Durocher's fast and alert club one can only wonder again how they won 111 ball games in any league.

The Indians were supposed to have bench strength, yet at the very end, with only one more out to go before decomposition set in, Lopez found himself forced to send up a lefty swinger, Dale Mitchell, against one of the game's finest southpaws, Johnny Antonelli. Mitchell ended the agony with a pop foul to Henry Thompson.

The most significant thing we heard in the winners' happy dressing room was Durocher's explanation of why he relieved with Antonelli in the eighth inning of the clincher after Hoyt Wilhelm had wavered, instead of bringing on his other short-term specialist, Marv Grissom, who had proved his ability to throttle the Tribe in the opener. Leo snorted at a suggestion that he had planned all along to relieve with his top hand if such a situation arose.

"If you want to know something, it wasn't my idea at all" he said. "It was Al Dark's. After hitting against their left-hander, Mossi in the sixth Al told me the shadows made it very difficult to see a southpaw at all and suggested that I get Johnny in there as quickly as possible. If it hadn't been for that I probably would have gone on with Wilhelm. Hoyt's only trouble was that he had too much stuff."

Some of the Cleveland supporters we talked with after the final game were inclined to be critical of the way Lopez handled his team during the rout. That is, they didn't think he looked quite as sharp as Durocher did in the tight spots. We were forced to disagree.

It is true that Leo managed a terrific series, but he had the better club, the faster and smarter club. Lopez directed such talent as he had at his disposal in the exact manner he did during the season, and that was good enough to overwhelm the five weak teams in his league. No manager who ever lived could have driven the Indians to victory in this World Series.

Leo Durocher To Seek 2nd Flag In '55

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the world champion New York Giants, will be back at the helm in 1955.

Scotching all rumors he intended to quit the Giants and leave baseball entirely. Durocher promises hell be back seeking a second straight pennant next year.

The triumphant manager left last night for his Beverly Hills, Calif., home for a rest. He was accompanied by his actress wife Laraine and their two children, Michele and Chris.

"I have absolutely no plans of doing anything other than holding the job I have," he said before leaving.

"I don't know how those rumors started. I am not considering any other offers. Right now all I'm interested in is to take a good rest and be with my famiy."

Rumors throughout the regular season persisted that Durocher and his boss, President Horace Stoneham of the Giants, weren't exactly on chummy terms. But they were Saturday when Stoneham embraced Leo in the clubhouse after the Giants had applied the crusher to the Cleveland Indians.

In between hugs and kisses, the elated Giant owner lauded Leo for his brilliant masterminding in the Series.

Following a sleepless all-night plane ride from Montreal, the International League playoff winners arrived in time to drop the opening game of the series to Louisville, 9-1.

The Chiefs took off from Montreal early Sunday morning after beating Montreal, 7-6, to capture the International title.

Purdue Plays Host To Duke Following Win Over ND

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writer

Four years ago Purdue snapped a Notre Dame unbeaten streak at 39 games. That Boilermaker club won only one more game that season, so the suspicion was that it was one of those flukes that happen every so often.

This year they broke a modest Notre Dame unbeaten streak of 13 games and in the process handed 26-year-old Terry Brennan his first defeat as a varsity college coach. This one, you may be sure, was no fluke.

Coach Stu Holcomb has a solid club, several good veterans and a fine crop of sophomores headed by the fantastic Len Dawson, who in his first two games has pitched eight touchdown passes. He completed 7 of 12 in the Boilermakers' 27-14 conquest of the Irish.

After whipping both Missouri and Notre Dame, the Boilermakers play host this week to Duke, which also has won both its games. The Blue Devils beat Penn in their opener and nipped Tennessee 7-6 Saturday. On that basis, Purdue should rule the solid favorite.

The Irish will try to pick up the pieces this week against Pitt.

Notre Dame has plenty of company. Maryland, the 1953 national champion, was flattened by UCLA last Friday. Texas, Illinois, Michigan State and Georgia Tech also have fallen.

Illinois dropped a 12-2 decision to Stanford Saturday and the Spartans were beaten by Wisconsin 6-0.

All this portends nothing but trouble ahead for Oklahoma the perennial Big Seven champion and No. 2 team behind Notre Dame in last week's Associated Press poll.

The Sooners have a clean slate, having taken the measure of both California and Texas Christian. Their date this week is with Texas, which rebounded smartly from its Notre Dame loss to overwhelm Washington State 40-14.

Iowa, the third-ranking team in the country, faces Michigan this week after an easy 48-6 conquest of Montana. The Wolverines themselves were victims of one of the big upsets of the day when they droped a 26-7 decision to Army.

UCLA, Maryland's conqueror, visits Washington, while the deflated Terps will try to regain some prestige at Wake Forest.

Mississippi, the eighth - rated team in the AP poll, looked powerful thrashing Villanova 52-0 and should do just as well against Vanderbilt.

Southern California, a pretender to the Pacific Coast crown, still is unbeaten after three games and figures to extend the streak against Texas Christian Friday night.

Penn State, which looks like about the best the East has to offer, dropped Syracuse 13-0 and goes after its third straight against Virginia.

Powell-Norkus Match Is Set For Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Powell, the young California strongboy rated as a possible threat to heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in another year, steps into the national spotlight Wednesday night against Charley Norkus, the Port Washington, N. Y. trial horse.

Wertz Sews Up 1st Base Spot

'Will Work Like Dog' To Retain Position

By BEN PHLEGAR

CLEVELAND (AP)—Vic Wertz has the first-base job with the Cleveland Indians sewed up for next season but he said today he's going "to work like a dog" to earn the right to keep it.

"I'll make it, I gotta make it and I'm going to make it. I'll take dancing lessons all winter if it'll help,' he said.

The 29-year-old Pennsylvanian was the only bright spot in the World Series collapse of the Cleveland Indians. He led both clubs in hits with eight, four of them in the first game, and his .500 average was tops among the regulars.

After seven seasons in the majors as an outfielder, Wertz appeared headed for oblivision with the Baltimore Orioles until he was traded suddenly on June 1 to the Indians.

At the time his stock had hit an all-time low. He had struck out his first six times up as cleanup hitter for the new Orioles and the Baltimore fans rode him unmercifully. The one-time slugger was a .202 benchwarmer when he was traded.

"It was just like a pardon from the governor," he said. " was getting a second chance.

"I had gotten in a rut playing for the St. Louis Browns and the Orioles. When you're playing for a club that's always losing its easy to get in a rut. With Cleveland everything was suddenly brighter.

"Hank Greenberg straightened out my batting problems and when I get the bugs out of the fielding at first I'm going to be ready for a really great season, you just wait and see."

Wertz was with the Detroit Tigers when they almost won the pennant in 1950 and he's been waiting for his Series chance ever since.

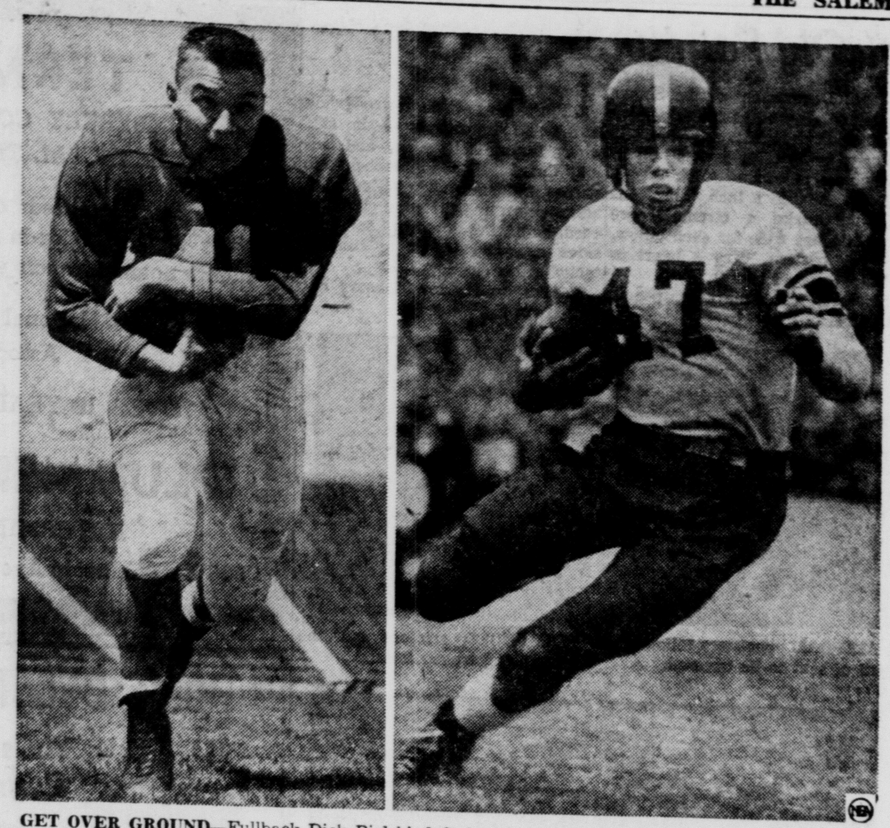

Plan Big Welcome For Manager Lopez

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Plans were being completed today for a rousing celebration to welcome home Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Bands, Beauty queens, civic clubs, junior baseball teams, fans and other friends of Lopez will join in the festivities, tentatively set for Wednesday.

There will be a parade from Al Lopez Field, Tampa's new baseball park, through the business district to the section where Lopez lives.

Mayor Curtis Hixon said Tampans want Lopez to know they are still behind him despite the Indians' loss of the World Series to the New York Giants in four games.

In Texas — Where Else?

'Happy 400' Form Country's Most Unusual Grid QB Club

By GAYLE TALBOT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—One of the manifestations of nature peculiar to the American scene is the football luncheon club, whose spavined and windblown members gather once each week during the open season on football coaches to diagnose the previous Saturday's game and permit their captive mentor to try to explain why his ends didn't get down the field under punts.

Normally such clubs, composed of bankers and wet wash tycoons for the most part, are based in cities which are the sites of major football factories.

The president of the school in question might feel that his particular coach is slightly sub-human and long desperately to dispense with his services, but he will in all probably keep it to himself. But once let that local "first down" club decide that it has a clinker on its hands and you're looking at a coach who's in trouble. Coaches who have undergone the treatment and given up the profession in favor of something less wearing, have written of their experiences in bitter detail.

And so, it is with the keen emotion of an explorer who has just dug up a pharoah's pleasure yacht that we can report the discovery of a football eating and oratorical club which doesn't even have a coach to knaw on, but which gathers itself together just for the pure hell of it, and because it loves football.

This organization is the San Antonio Quarterback Club. It has more than 40 members, with a waiting list. Each member pays in advance, in a lump sum, for the privilege of sitting down once a week for 15 weeks each fall and wondering what he is going to see and hear. All he knows for certain is that it will have to do with football, and he is happy.

There is no major football school closer than the University of Texas, and that is more than 80 miles away. The club's nominal toastmaster and guiding spirit is Harold Scherwitz, who for going on 38 years has been the sports editor of the San Antonio Light.

The principal characteristic of the Quarterback Club, which now is in its seventh lively year, is the fact that, under the Scherwitz influence, it has proved that football can be fun. That was, of course, the original purpose of the game, but few are old enough to recall it. They say that scarcely a fan leaves a quarterback luncheon with the heartburn, no matter how his own particular Southwest Conference team came out the previous Saturday.

Mostly the club features one of the seven conference coaches at its weekly meeting. They are happy to answer a Scherwitz summons, we hear, because there are 17 high schools within the city and its environs, and all of them turn out football players who might prove useful.

On the Monday after the conference race closed last year, all seven head coaches showed up at the Quarterback Club at one time. Each was given a gift watch, a seat and a personal microphone, and then was encouraged by the toastmaster to say anything that came into his mind about his six fellow coaches and the race just ended.

"I only wish you could have heard it,' says Scherwitz, happily.

Fairfield Six-Man Team Is Defeated

Sparked by hard-running halfback Dick Robinson, Hopedale defeated Fairfield High School 38-7 in a six-man football game yesterday afternoon at Leetonia.

Hopedale scored 19 points in the initial quarter and led 25-0 at the half. Fairfield's lone score came early in the third period when halfback Dick Mentz tallied and halfback Bob Chmura converted for the losers.

John Borton Of Alliance Takes Back Seat On Ohio State Team

COLUMBUS—(NEA)—"Time and change will surely show how firm our friendship, Ohio," goes part of the verse of Ohio State's alma mater song.

Quiet, scholarly John Borton must be pondering that phrase with mixed emotions as he studies his football future.

Two years ago, Sophomore Borton was about to blossom into a remarkable quarterback, so good in fact that it was unthinkable to consider the Buckeyes without first thinking of the strong Alliance, O., product.

Borton set an OSU passing record in 1952 leading the nation's throwers with 115 completions in 196 tosses for 1555 yards and 15 touchdowns. He was a poised youngster with all the confidence in the world and a marvelously steadying influence on his teammates.

Today, as co-captain, Borton remains a polished performer but is rapidly becoming a victim of the passing parade, an ironic twist considering passing always has been Borton's forte.

BIG JOHN IS NOT in the picture as a steady starter for the Bucks. Several factors enter into this almost unbelievable fact.

Borton has not fully recovered from the physical beating he suffered against Illinois last year, one that put him out of commission for the remaining six games.

At 6-1 and 200 pounds, Borton was never considered fast afoot. In fact, he was actually slow as backs go.

This year Borton reported at 210 pounds, primarily because he had been cooped up aboard ship for eight weeks on a naval cruise just prior to the opening of practice. Soon after the sweating out period began, he fractured the middle finger of his throwing hand, an injury that would not have slowed down anybody but a passing quarterback.

PASSING PARADE — John Borton led the nation's college passers in 1952.

While Borton was fighting the battle of condition and the delemma of the wounded digit, understudy Dave Leggett, who stepped in last year, tightened his grip on the job.

At the same time, top - rated sophomores Andy Theis of Nyack, N.Y., and Andy Okulovich improved by leaps and bounds.

WORKING AGAINST Borton more than his physical condition, however, is the fact that Woody Hayes has re-designed his offense to incorporate all the advantages of the split-T quarterback option plays.

This style requires considerable speed and maneuverability of the quarterbacks which, unfortunately, Borton never possessed in his best days.

Leggett has looked better than he has ever looked. Theis took to the split-T option — where the quarterback runs behind the forward wall playing cat-and-mouse with the opposing end and linebacker, at the last minute deciding whether to pitch out, hand off or keep—and looked even better as a runner than Leggett.

OKULOVCH, HAILED as a passing genius, fell behind the others a bit until more recently, when he, too, showed signs of finally catching the finesse needed in the options.

Not until a few days ago did Borton get into any action. Then it was entirely as a defensive linebacker, a spot he sparkled in as a freshman under two-platoon rules. He hasn't had a bit of offensive work since the early days this fall.

John Borton remains one of the great passers in Ohio State history, but whether he can come on fast enough to oust Leggett, Theis and Okulovich is another question.

Checkup Can Avoid Loss Of Home

Dangers Of Fire In Home Can Cause Much Loss Of Sleep

Ever wake up at night and smell smoke? Its one way to have your sleep ruined, even after you shuffle around in slippers and find the smoke comes from a neighbor's smoldering barbecue or rubbish pile.

It doesn't sooth your nerves any to read the news in connection with Fire Prevention Week that fire losses are constantly increasing and that most of the 12,000 persons who die in fires every year in this country are women and children in their own homes.

But there is a lot of encouragement in the prevailing do-it-yourself activities among home handymen. Becoming more conscious of good building and equipment practices, we all are more likely to see to it that our homes are kept more fire safe.

HALF OF ALL the fires that attacked 400,000 homes in this country in the past year could have been prevented simply by "good engineering,' says the National Fire Protection Assn. This "good engineering" refers to four common structural hazards which have to do with (1) heating plants, (2) chimneys, (3) roofs, and (4; wiring systems.

Common sense elimination of these structural hazards obviously could save thousands of lives and quickly put the rising curve of fire losses into a tailspin.

Here is a summary of the association's suggetion, which could be tacked up over your work bench until you attend to them:

1. Heating Plant — Make sure that this is set on a substantial base, well away from walls. Wood floors and nearby walls or partitions should be fire protected. Joists above the furnace should be fire-protected with gypsum plaster, gypsum wallboard, or some similar fire-resistant material. Keep smoke pipes visible throughout their length, including their point of entry into the chimney.

2. The Chimney — This should be built solidly from the ground up. It should not depend for its support on any wooden construction, nor should it be used to support any part of your house, chimney flues should be lined and the thickness of chimney walls should be about 8 inches. Clean a chimney at least once a year.

3. Your Roof — This is one of the most vulnerable parts of a house. For protection against a neighbor's sparks, flying embers and sparks from your own chimney, use a fire-retardant roofing, such as mineral covered asphalt shingles. If you have wood shingles, provide spark arresters for the chimney, wet down the hingles in dry weather or when there is danger from nearby fires. Remove leaves and litter from eaves troughs.

4. Wiring — Many wiring systems were originally designed only for electric lights and small appliances and are not adequate for dishwashers, ranges, ironers, freezers, dryers, television and air conditioning. To avoid the danger of overloading circuits, make sure your wiring system is of sufficient capacity. Have plenty of outlets, properly located to eliminate long tension cords. If wiring must be extended, call a licensed electrician and have the job done right.

TO PREVENT home fires from spreading is as important as to keep them from starting. Construction is the secret. Use fire-resistive building materials wherever possible — gypsum, brick, stone, concrete, steel. One of the distinctive characteristics of gypsum, whether in plaster or wallboard, is that in addition to being a mineral product, it will expel water into a fire to the extent of about one-half its volume. This moisture content is slowly converted into steam, repelling the fire and dissipating its heat.

A NEW FIRE ALARM of the install-it-yourself type is about to be nationally distributed by the largest manufacturer of electrical signalling devices. It is a plug-in device comprising a decoratve aluminum box housing a transformer of the doorbell type, a loud bell and a test button for home fire drills. Light wiring for a harmless 10-volt current connects the alarm with thermal detectors, which can be mounted over heating plant or in cellar stairway and other danger points. The detectors set off the alarm when the temperature within a 400 square foot area reaches 140 degrees.

The complete signal system with two detectors will retail under $20 with extra detectors around $3.50 each.

Greenford

Mrs. Laura Knopp of Greenford, her daughters and son and families attended the Nold reunion at Firestone Park Sunday. Over 250 were present. The Nolds' arrival from Switzerland 200 years ago was the occasion of the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Urton Anderson and family of Greenford are making their home with Mrs. Will Kenreich for the present. They purchased land from Robert Kenreich and have started to erect a new home. Mr. Anderson is teaching at Boardman this year.

TIP: Protect house walls from ladder scratches. A carpet-covered rolling pin, drilled lengthwise, can be secured above top rung with long bolt, nuts, washers.

Re-upholster That Old Furniture

For minimum expenditure, hard-seated old chairs can be revived with a soft, permanently shaped foam rubber cushion, and pillowless sofas can be dressed up with throw cushions. A homemaker can perform these miracles herself with little effort.

To salvage that old straight chair, the Airfoam division of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has worked out a simple technique for re-upholstering with foam rubber.

Materials needed:

Piece of sheet or roll stock Airfoam rubber, slightly larger than chair seat.

Heavy scissors, tape measure, straightedge, china-marking pencil and adhesive.

How to do it:

1. Remove chair seat and take off old upholstery, if any. Trace seat shape on Airfoam, allowing a quarter-inch on all sides.

2. Following tracing, cut out cushion with scissors. Dip them in water if lubrication is needed.

3. Bevel edges with deep scissors strokes.

4. Place cushion on seat, beveled edge down, and apply adhesive to hold in place.

5. Place seat on fabric, and cut, allowing material to tack under seat. Tack, Replace seat in chair.

Making a pillow in any shape for a sofa is easy, the way the Educational Department of the Singer Company has worked it out.

Materials needed:

Foam rubber, 3 inches thick, enough for pillows.

Foam rubber 1 inch thick, enough to make a circumference strip 3 inches wide for each pillow.

Paper pattern. (Try a heart or a triangle, for variety).

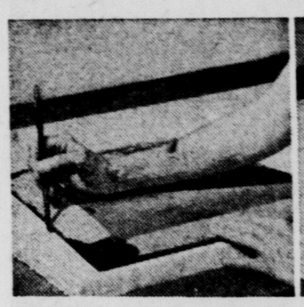

Scissors, china-marking pencil, adhesive.

How to do it:

1. Pin paper pattern to wrong side of 3-inch foam rubber — the side where the air cells show—and cut.

2. Cut 1-inch foam rubber into stripes 3 inches wide. Glue with adhesive around the edge of pillow core, applying cement to both sides and allowing it to become tacky before joining.

3. Allow to dry for 24 hours before covering.

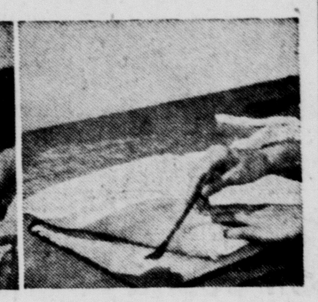

AIRFOAM upholstery follows pattern of seat to be covered.

ADHESIVE binds foam to wood. Next step: fabric cover.

Quizzing the Gardener

Q — Is fish fertilizer in liquid form recommended for house plants in general?

A — Yes, if you do not mind the slight fishy aroma that it possesses. There are several types at the seed stores; choose one containing the three essential elements, nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash. Fish itself contains little or no potash.

Q — How and where should one store seed saved from last summer's garden?

A — Seeds present a special problem. Often thought of as dry, inert stuff, they are, in fact, living plants in a state of suspended animation. To reman alve, they must be stored dry and cold.

Seedsmen have a rule of thumb temperature and humidity should never add up to more than 100. Thus, if humidity is 50 per cent, keep the thermometer below 50. A cool, dry attic is ideal until the sun gets hot.

Q — Will an old standard apple tree pollinate a dwarf apple?

A—Yes—so long as the varieties are different, pollination is accomplished whether the trees are standard or dwarf.

Q — How long must we wait before our apple, pear and peach trees, planted last spring, will bear some fruit.

A — Do not be impatient. Two year-old apple and pear, the size generally offered by nurserymen, will bear a few fruits the fourth year after planting. From year-old peach trees you should expect considerable fruit the third year after planting. To insure bearing mulch the trees this winter with old manure on top of the ground. Fertilize early next spring with a balanced fertilizer strong in phosphorus.

Q — Creeping red fescue has been recommended for our lawn, which will be much used by the children. What is your opinion?

A — It is an excellent grass because it thrives on all types of soil, even on dry poor soils. It maintains its color the year-round and tolerates shady places. It can withstand the wear and tear of football and is not winter-killed. It should not be sown alone but rather in combnation with some Kentucky or Merion blue grass and a little red top. Try to secure the improved Illahee strain of fescue.

National Homes To Open New Factories In 1955

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — The nation's largest manufacturer of prefabricated homes, National Homes Corp., will open two new factories in 1955. James R. Price, president of the company, told shareholders at the annual meeting last week that the two new plants will more than double present production capacity of 120 houses a day, and permit the company to build 275 houses a day.

One of the plants will be the third to be erected in Lafayette, Indiana, and the other will be located in the Dallas, Texas, area.

Construction Drops Here Last Month

Five building permits for a proposed $10,375 worth of construction issued in the last week of September by the mayor's office brought the month's total of permits issued to 23 covering an estimated total cost of $114,475.

In comparison with August when 20 permits were issued to cover an estimated total of $130,425, last month showed a drop in money earmarked for construction although the number of permits was higher.

The largest proportion of permits last month went to persons planning to erect new buildings. Fifteen permits were issued for initial construction covering a proposed outlay of $102,125. The remaining eight permits covering $12,350 went to persons planning additions and remodeling.

Raymond and Florence Zimmerman received a permit to build a frame house on E. 8th St. at an estimated cost of $6,000 while Dr. C. J. Lehwald was issued a permit for a $2,500 garage to be built at 836 S. Lincoln Ave. Kenneth E. and Ruth A. Schiller obtained a permit to construct a block garage at 180 W. 16th St. at an estimated cost of $424.

Permits were issued to James and Mary Aldom for the remodeling of a garage at 954 N. Union at an estimated expense of $1,000 and to Kaufman Brothers for the $450 residing of a house at 464 S. Broadway.

SEEK CLUES IN MURDER

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police today were seeking clues in the strangulation death of Mrs. Glendora Thomas, 27-year-old mother of four, whose body was found in a vacant lot in nearby Bedford Saturday. Although the body was clad only in a brassiere, stockings and one shoe, Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said the woman had not been raped. Mrs. Thomas, a Negro, had been separated from her husband, William, about three months. Thomas was questioned, but not held.

ONLY BUS TOKENS

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A pistol-waving bandit entered the Tyler Transit Co. office last night, forced nightwatchman A. R. Phillips into a closet and headed for the safe.

In it, he spied a bulging money sack. He grabbed it and fled, apparently thinking he had the day's receipts.

Company owner B C. Curry said the sack contained 2,100 bus tokens.

Elks To Observe Newspaper Week

The Salem Elks Lodge will observe National Newspaper Week with a special program at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the Elks Home.

Featuring the program will be a tribute to the press in this district, carrying ut the Newspaper Week slogan, "Your Newspaper-Freedom's Forum," James S. Gregg, exalted ruler of the lodge, said.

Newspapermen in Salem, Lisbon, Columbiana, Leetonia and East Palestine will be guests at the affair. A buffet lunch will be served after the meeting.

Observance of National Newspaper Week is one of the most important events on th eElks lodges calendar this year and is one of the 16 major objectives that William J. Jernick of Nutley, N. Y., grand exalted ruler of the B.P.O. Elks, has se for completion by the various lodges this year.

In his statement announcing the observance, Jernick said: "Our free press has served well to guard our liberties, exposing those who would encroach upon them. For this, the press has earned the gratitude and appreciation of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, whose first concern is the preservation of our democratic institutions."

"But there is another, and perhaps even more important role that the press has played in our country's development," Jernick added. "Because it has been free to inquire, to seek out the truth, to inform the people, to comment, o criicize and interpret the press has helped to expand freedom—freedom of speech freedom of worship and opportunity, and it has helped to stimulate the social, economic, and political progress. The press has indeed been Freedoms Forum, and it has served as such with courage, imagination and ever-growing sense of responsibility."

TO BE MAIN SPEAKER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Norman P. Mason, commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, will be the main speaker today at the 66th annual Ohio Savings and Loan League convention. About 1,000 are expected to attend the two-day meeting.

Two physicians and staff nurses from the Columbiana County Health department worked this morning at United Local School injecting 150 children with gamma globulin to try to stem a growing polio threat in that area.

Pupils were brought by school buses to the United Local building, which was ordered closed this week by Dr. Geore Pantera, county health commissioner "until the disease subsides.'

Dr. Paul Ringsmith of Hanoverton assisted the health director in the mass immunization.

Some 2,000 cubic cc's of the preventive were received from the Ohio Department of Health over the weekend to fortify a 1,000 "c.c."

supply held in store by the county health office.

The immunization program at United Local School is optional with only those students participating whose parents give consent.

The school has 707 elementary pupils.

The quarantine includes high school students traveling United Local buses to Salem, Lisbon and Augusta High schools.

Some Lisbon High school pupils who came to school by car today were sent home by Principal George Nace, Jr.

Dr. Pantera said Saturday that GG is not a 100 per cent preventative against polio, but it is the best immunization available at present.

Washingtonville Council To Obtain Sewage Cost

WASHINGTONVILLE — A group of citizens meeting in the town hall Thursday night approved authorizing the Village Council to make a preliminary survey to determine the cost of a sewage disposal plant and sewer lines.

Only one of the 120 persons attending voiced objection to the proposal. The action came after representatives of an Akron engineering firm discussed the sewage problem and outlined various methods of sewage disposal that could be used in the community.

The village recently was ordered by the State Water Pollution Control Board to take steps to make adequate and proper disposal of its sewage. A state permit to discharge waste into Little Beaver Creek expires Nov. 1.

Washingtonville does not have a sewage disposal system, most of the homes here being equipped with septic tanks. Seepage and kitchen waste thrown by housewives into open ditches flow into the Little Beaver Creek, a condition which the state contends pollutes the stream.

Council will meet next Monday night to discuss the sewage problem.

2 American Brothers Ask Red Asylum

BERLIN (AP) — Two American brothers who vanished mysteriously from West Berlin early last month presented themselves at a Communist news conference today and said they had asked political asylum in East Germany.

The men are William Henry Starr, 30, an electrician, and James Starr, 31, an oil worker, both formerly of Westville, N.J.

They had been living in Germany more than a year and a half.

The brothers were presented at a specially-called press conference in East Berlin which provided the first indication of their whereabouts since West Berliners reported they saw the East German highway patrol arrest them Sept. 7 on the autobahn.

William Henry Starr, speaking for the pair told correspondents they defected because they "disagreed with the ruling clique in the United States' and its policy.

"If we had dared to say this in West Berlin, we would have been arrested and brought back to the United States to face trial there," he said. "We love America and the American people and will not return as long as America is governed by this clique."

He spoke in English and his remarks were translated into German by a woman interpreter.

Starr said the brothers had been working in the electrical equipment field, had been in Euproe about two years and had spent the last year in West Berlin.

East German government press chief Fritz Beyling cut short questions from newsmen, claiming the press conference had been called for other matters. Beyling earlier had blasted the London nine-power conference and alleged American espionage activities in East Germany.

comment to newsmen on the censure issue, saying the matter is one for the Senate.

While the controversial Wisconsin senator was facing a battery of questioners on the censure issue, the Chicago Tribune published a report that another of his coprincipals in the McCarthy-Army case was about to leave the Senate Investigations subcommittee McCarthy heads.

The Tribune said Subcommittee Staff Director Francis P. Carr will resign his $11,000-a-ayear post to take an executive job with an unnamed large transportation company headquartered in New York.

Carr, McCarthy and Subcommittee Counsel Roy M. Cohn were principals in the row with top Army officials which the subcommittee investigated in 36 days of public hearings last srping. Carr was dismissed as a principal midway in the hearings by unanimous vote. Cohn resigned July 19, 12 days before the issuance of majority and minority subcommittee reports both critical of him.

The Tribune said Carr has reportedly told friends he is "extremely reluctant" to leave the subcommittee, but he "believes McCarthy's enemies have tied McCarthy up so completely" that the committee won't be able to function the rest of this year.

Neither McCarthy nor Carr could be reached for comment on the newspaper story.
